Thirteenth Annual IAGC Convention Presenters

James Delisle

is a Distinguished Professor of Education at Kent State University and a part-time teacher of gifted middle school students in Twinsburg, Ohio. Jim has published fourteen books, several of which have been translated into multiple languages, and more than 200 articles. His work has been featured in the New York Times, People Magazine, and on Oprah, among various other media outlets.

Pamela DePinto

has taught students in grades K-12 and served as a Special Program Facilitator in a K-12 district. Pam also served as the Lake County Curriculum Coordinator where she provided numerous workshops and Gifted Institute training for teachers throughout the state of Illinois. Pam is a Past President of the Illinois Association for Gifted Children and received the IAGC Distinguish Service Award in 2005. In Lake Forest District 67, Pam has served as Director of Instruction. She has also worked as a national education consultant for sixteen years and provided supplementary units for textbooks in the area of language arts.

Arlene DeVries

has recently retired after 24 years with the Des Moines Public Schools Gifted & Talented program and is now a gifted education consultant addressing the social and emotional needs of gifted children. She has served as President of SENG (Supporting Emotional Needs of Gifted), is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association for Gifted Children, Past President of Iowa Talented and Gifted Association, recipient of their Distinguished Service Award in 2003, and the Drake University School of Education Outstanding Alumnae Award in 2005. She is co-author of two 2007 publications from Great Potential Press, Gifted Parent Groups, the SENG Model, 2nd Edition, and A Parent's Guide to Gifted Children.

L. Dennis Higgins

has authored and co-authored numerous articles and two book chapters that focus on twice-exceptional children. He has contributed and consulted on the joint CEC/NAGC "Twice-Exceptional Dilemma" document. His program is featured in the PBS Television Special "A Chance to Read" for the syndicated program Reading Rockets. In 2006, Dr. Higgins was inducted into the Kansas Music Hall of Fame for his national contribution to children's music. In 2007, he was awarded the New Mexico Golden Apple for Excellence in Teaching for his service to the Albuquerque Public Schools.

students, assessment of gifted children, program evaluation, and research methodology. In 2003, she was awarded the Early Scholar Award by the National Association for Gifted Children.

M. Elizabeth Nielsen is an Associate Professor of Special Education at the University of New Mexico (UNM) and served as the coordinator for the Gifted Education Teacher Training Program. Dr. Nielsen has focused much of the 22 years of university work on unique populations of gifted learners with disabilities. She has published numerous articles and textbook chapters regarding these twice-exceptional students. Also, she has been a keynote speaker at various state conferences and has made over fifty presentations at national, regional, and local conferences and has assisted in the production of nationally disseminated audio and video recordings on the topic. She's been the principal investigator for two university and public school district collaborative projects focused on gifted students with disabilities. These $1,000,000 research initiatives have been funded by Jacob J. Javits Gifted & Talented Grants.

Sally Reis

is a Professor and the past Department Head of Educational Psychology Department at the University of Connecticut where she also serves as a Principal Investigator for the National Research Center on the Gifted and Talented. She was a teacher for fifteen years, eleven of which were spent working with gifted students on the elementary, junior high, and high school levels. In addition, she has authored more than 140 articles, 12 books, 60 book chapters, and numerous monographs and technical reports. Sally serves on several editorial boards, including the Gifted Child Quarterly, and is a Past President of the National Association for Gifted Children. She recently was named a Distinguished Scholar of the National Association for Gifted Children and a Board of Trustees Distinguished Professor at the University of Connecticut.

Mary L. Slade

is a Professor in the Department of Exceptional Education at the College of Education at James Madison University. Mary received her B.S. in Elementary Education with an emphasis in secondary English from Longwood College, and her Masters and Doctorate from the University of Virginia. She resides in the Exceptional Education Department directing the gifted education coursework and the Pre-K-12 Add-On Gifted Education Endorsement is a Director of Extended Services in Community Consolidated School District 220, Barrington. She has worked in the field of gifted education for over twenty years and is currently serving as President of IAGC. A special area of interest for Julie is identifying and serving minority and low-income gifted students.

Julie Luck Jensen

Bertie Kingore

is an international consultant and the author of twenty-two books, numerous articles, and instructional aids. She has received many honors including the Legacy Award as the Author of the 2005 Educator Book of the Year and was the first recipient of the Texas Gifted Educator of the Year Award. Dr. Kingore and her husband are the parents of three gifted sons whose needs and talents fuel her dedication to education. Recognized for her humorous and practical presentations, she advocates learning experiences that encourage high level responses and high achievement from students while minimizing the intensity of teacher preparation time.

Penny Britton Kolloff is retired from the faculty at Illinois State University. She completed her Ph.D. at Purdue University and served as Assistant Director of the Gifted Education Resource Institute. She also directed the Program for Academic and Creative Enrichment (PACE) based on the Purdue Three-Stage Model. From 1981-1990, Penny was a faculty member at Ball State University and director of the Center for Gifted and Talented. She worked with the Indiana Department of Education to implement several state-wide initiatives for gifted children and their teachers. Penny served two terms on the board of directors of the National Association for Gifted Children and received both the Early Leader award and the Outstanding Research Paper award from NAGC. She is past president of the Illinois Association for Gifted Children and a member of advisory boards for the Gifted Education Resource Institute at Purdue University and the Center for Talent Development at Northwestern University. She publishes book chapters and articles on curriculum and programs for gifted, literacy, and gifted females.

Tonya Moon

has taught students of all ages and abilities since graduating from Oberlin College in 1974. He holds an Iowa teaching certificate with K-12 endorsement in Gifted Education and a Masters degree in Gifted Education from the University of Northern Iowa. Ed is a popular presenter at math and gifted education conferences around the country and has approached gifted education as a parent, teacher, and school board member. His students will testify to his ability to make math fun and challenging for them as well as his unique sense of humor which comes through in his classes and workshops. Ed is the author of: Challenge Math for the Elementary and Middle School Student, Real World Algebra, Primary Grade Challenge Math, The 10 Things all Future Mathematicians and Scientists Must Know, and Becoming a Problem-Solving Genius.

Thirteenth IAGC Convention

The Thirteenth Illinois Association for Gifted Children Convention is being held on December 9-11, 2007 and will offer a variety of sessions on Monday and Tuesday. Due to the change in location (for this year only) and size of rooms available, our program will include national presenters for half-day sessions organized around the following strands: Program Development and Social/Emotional Needs. In addition, check Sunday's schedule for special parent and educator workshops in the afternoon, as well as a Sunday evening session with Arlene DeVries.

Registration is limited to the first 1200 attendees per day. See the Registration Form for early, regular and after November 27 fees. If you plan to register at the door, or after November 27, please call the IAGC office at 847-963-1892 to make sure there is space available. Join us for an energizing convention filled with the latest best practice ideas for our gifted students.

Workshops for Sunday, December 9, 2007

12:00-4:00 p.m. Workshop for Parents and Educators

Join scores of parents from throughout Illinois. Our featured presenter is Arlene DeVries, who recently retired after 24 years with the Des Moines Public Schools Gifted & Talented Program, and is now a gifted education consultant addressing social and emotional needs of gifted children. Her topic is Living in the Gifted Family. During this hour presentation, tips will be provided to assist families with sibling, peer, and parent relationships, communication, alienation, and warning signs of stress and depression.

In addition, the afternoon will include networking opportunities and activities for you to meet other parents who share your same joys and concerns and who even have different ones, all related to living with these special children of ours and their very special gifts. You are not alone! Meet new friends, reconnect with old ones. Please join us.

1:00-3:30 p.m. Workshop for Educators

Mary L. Slade, Associate Professor, James Madison University

Current Trends and Issues in Identification for Gifted Learners

The best identification paradigm for giftedness reflects an understanding of the current challenges in identification as well as the use of complimentary best practices including those which address the diversity of students and underserved populations of gifted learners in particular. This session will focus on current trends and issues with identification of gifted students.

7:00-8:30 p.m. Evening Seminar for Parents and Educators

Arlene DeVries, Gifted Educational Consultant

Parent Power: How to Make it Work!

This seminar will describe ways in which parents can successfully achieve appropriate services for their gifted children thereby eliminating some social-emotional stressors. Specific tips will be given on home-school communication, ways in which parents can contribute both directly and indirectly, and how to establish a variety of opportunities for parent involvement.

Participants will be encouraged to share success stories from their local communities.
