Social and Emotional Development of Gifted and Talented Students
Addresses the social and emotional characteristics and needs of gifted and talented students. Candidates will develop an understanding of the social and emotional issues (e.g., perfectionism, anxiety, underachievement) gifted and talented learners may experience. Candidates will develop strategies and tools to support the affective needs of gifted and talented students and learn how to create a safe, inclusive learning environment.

SPRING 2020

EEND 602 | 3 credit hours
Survey of Gifted Education
The focus of this course is on intellectual giftedness, its description, characteristics and the nature of such gifts and talents in the elementary and secondary school setting. This course examines changes in definition, the controversy over characteristics, and a discussion of the causes and prevalence rates of giftedness. It also examines the assessment process, and product and process measures, including reflective assessment. The course concludes by examining benefits and concerns with inclusion and collaboration along with a description of some excellent program options being utilized in today’s schools and communities.
